Element

Oct. 19, 2007, - Jan. 31, 2008

The natural elements affect us each day. Earth, air, fire and water are essential parts of life.

This exhibition explores numerous visual interpretations of the elements that each of us may take for granted when we walk, breathe, cook or swim.

Each of the artists in this exhibition chose an element that he or she believed could best be represented through his or her particular media.

Audiences are encouraged to take notice, ponder and reflect on the natural world.
