Falling Leaves

Through Nov. 12

Valley artists Ron Bimrose and Kim Walker celebrate the fall with work that deals with nature and leaf imagery. Look for the colors of fall and the moments when, in this fast-paced world, people are able to take a step back, enjoy nature and reflect.

Properties of Paper

Nov. 14-Feb. 4

Artists Konjevod and Kazilek explore the art of paper. Both artists' work is colorful and simply beautiful. But the process each takes to achieve the final work is highly analytical and scientific in nature.

Lower Level Gallery

Digital Age

Dec. 4-March 4

Email, text messaging, iPod, YouTube and camera phones have changed the way in which information is sent and received. This exhibition features works inspired or made by new technologies and the fast-paced information age.

Flower & Fauna

Through Dec. 27

The Arizona desert and unique plants provide inspiration for artists Catherine Ruane, Denise Currier, Heather Kirk, John Villinski, Kim Walker, Sandy Tracy, Mary Shindell, Sandra Luehrsen and Craig Cheply, whose work spans native fauna and plants that are foreign to the region but thriving anyway.

CHILDSPLAY

Miss Nelson is Missing

Through Oct. 5, Theater

Anyone who has set foot in an elementary school will recognize the disruptive kids in Room 207 and their sweet but ineffectual teacher, Miss Nelson. When substitute Viola Swamp arrives, Room 207 is overwhelmed with homework, discipline, math, math and more math. The ending will have audiences cheering for Miss Nelsons everywhere.

Getting Near to Baby

Oct. 25-Nov. 9, Studio

As Willa Jo and Little Sister arrive for an extended visit with Aunt Patty, audiences get a glimpse at a family pulling together, dealing with grief and loss and learning to live with a sad truth. This new play is poignant, uplifting and funny by turns as it traces a family's journey of acceptance and understanding in the face of loss.

Velveteen Rabbit

Nov. 22-Dec. 21, Theater

For 17 years, Childsplay brought holiday magic to Valley families with its production of Margery Williams' classic. Now the tradition makes a triumphant return. Watch as the velveteen rabbit is given to a young boy, is introduced to a tough crowd of toys in the nursery, becomes a firm favorite, is sentenced to the incinerator with scarlet fever germs and finally becomes real through the power of love.
