2006 Plant and Price List

As MOUNTAIN STATES WHOLESALE NURSERY celebrates its 37th year, we extend our gratitude to all of our customers and friends who have supported and encouraged us through the years. There are many ways to measure progress, and to us the most meaningful sign is the presence of previously unused desert plants in thoughtful landscapes throughout the Southwest. These landscapes range from large-scale projects to simple private gardens, each quietly recognizing our deserts as places of great beauty, diversity, and well-springs of life.

The use of desert plants as landscape materials has evolved from the selection of our durable natives, which served to anchor difficult and demanding revegetation sites, to an ongoing and continuous search for beauty, color, and variety. In today's landscapes, our plant choices have broadened to include hues and forms which far surpass our earlier hopes of adding texture, refinement, brilliance—pizzazz, if you will—to already proven durability.

This evolution and refinement has progressed on many fronts in step with education and, much like a partnership, together they have established a foundation for greater appreciation and acceptance of desert plants across the southwestern United States. Without the education programs sponsored by so many organizations and institutions, and without the contributions of enthusiastic writers, the knowledge and pleasure of landscaping with this diverse palette would have remained limited to isolated pockets of enthusiasts. Instead, the combined efforts of many individuals have resulted in a unique plant palette that provides a distinct sense of place.

To assist you in your own selection process, MOUNTAIN STATES WHOLESALE NURSERY offers over 400 taxa of desert-adapted trees, shrubs, ornamental grasses, accents, flowering perennials, groundcovers and vines. We specialize in providing landscape plants that combine beauty and water economy. It is our goal to provide quality plant material to allow the fulfillment of design concepts that reflect the spirit and the beauty of the desert.

We cordially invite you to visit our nursery, explore the wide variety of possibilities found here, and let us introduce you to our large inventory of landscape plants collected from the deserts of the world. Or log on to our website, www.msw.com, for detailed information and images for many desert-adapted plants. We have a new, searchable database called PLANTIS™, that provides even more information regarding plants in our catalog. Our two growing locations offer the space to handle any order, and our experienced staff provides professional, personalized service to our customers.
