

Wood Eye

Sept. 15-Nov. 23, 2006

Howard Bernstein

The title “Wood Eye” is a play on words which can be interpreted in a variety of ways from “Having an Eye” for wood work, to the ever lasting question, “Would I?”

The Arizona artists participating in this exhibition definitely have the “eye” for working with and using wood as the vehicle for their work and their messages. They utilize wood in a variety of ways including sculpting or “turning” techniques, painting, collage and drawing/ burning.

Some work makes references to traditional wood tools, sculpture and/or furniture while other work only makes slight references to the media in which the artists work.

The “Post Office Exhibition” is an on-going exhibition of artwork by local and regional artists. The birth of this project began with talks between the city of Tempe Cultural Services Division and the Downtown Tempe Community, Inc., (DTC). Starting in April 2002, the U.S. Postal Service has been the site of more than 20 art exhibitions in downtown Tempe. This collaboration has been very successful in the city of Tempe Cultural Services Division’s dedication to further developing public art programs for Tempe.
